

A.B.V.C. Pet's Necessities Expat Woman Fair and going back to School!!!

Expat Woman Festive Craft Fair 12th November 2011 in support of the Royal British Legion Poppy Appeal and an Orphanage in Kathmandu.

Although spending time in a Sports Hall in the weekend normally does not rank high on my list of favored activities, I have to admit, being at the Hayya Sports Club facilities last November 12 was a nice non "sportive" event, especially when being positioned next to a home baker!

The clinic/pet shop donated a large number of prizes, such as free grooming vouchers for your cat or dog inclusive of a wash, nail cut and blow dry as well as leather dog accessories, leather leads and matching collars, towards the raffle. After all, If you pamper yourself why not pamper your pet as well, correct?

And if that would not be enough, nowadays the new pets generation, read, "my pets" expect a new Christmas toy each year, which they then can "carefully" unwrap. We brought our new wide range of seasonal gifts for your animals which are all available at the Pet Store, so come around and check them out.

ABVC goes back to school at the Dubai International Academy

No matter what age, we are all, at some point, going back to school, whether being involved because of our own children or participating in an event for children.

And for exactly that last reason, for the second consecutive year the A.B.V.C. group participated in the D.I.A. (Dubai International Academy) Winter Souk held on November 24th 2011.

As decision are difficult to make on which toys and gadgets are the most fun, we decided to take them all, therefore creating a very colorful and fully stocked stand, using the absolute maximum capacity of the 4 allocated tables.

With the help of student volunteers who "mildly" but "firmly" ☺ persuaded their teachers and peers to purchase some products, we spent a few nice hours at the schools court yard and found out that especially our mini Christmas hats hairclips were a great success and being in great demand.

We are also very proud to introduce a new food range, Fish4Dogs that we will shortly introduce to the U.A.E.'s pet loving community. This brand represents a well-known U.K. pet food, extremely suitable for animals with allergic or skin related medical issues. We just received the sample packages right before the fair and were therefore able to handover the flyers as well as dog sample packages during this event. More to read about Fish4Dogs later so please look out for information in our newsletter.

It was a pleasure to go back to school.....!!
